

Aarhus Kant Week 2017

James Conant

Master Class

Why Kant is not a Kantian

with James Conant (University of Chicago)

8-9 May 2017

Aarhus University, Søauditorierne

The course seeks to show how a proper understanding of the structure of the B Deduction—the philosophical lynchpin of Kant's Critique of Pure Reason—reveals its aim to be one of making sense of our capacities for sensibility and understanding in the light of each other: each is shown to depend on its relation to the other to be the sort of faculty that it is in a finite rational being.

Graduate students, young researchers and all others are welcome. Registration is required. Please send your name and university affiliation to: KantWeek2017@gmail.com

Public Lecture

Kant's Critique of the Layer-Cake Conception of the Mind

James Conant (University of Chicago)

10 May 2017, 11:15-13:00

Aarhus University, Søauditorierne, Jeppe Vontilius Auditoriet (1252-310)

All are welcome.

Transcendental Idealism and Skepticism – New Perspectives

International Workshop

11 May 2017, 9:30-18:15

Aarhus University, Søauditorierne, Jeppe Vontilius Auditoriet (1252-310)

12 May 2017, 9:30-18:15

Aarhus University, Søauditorierne, Merete Barker Auditoriet (1253-211)

All are welcome. No registration required.

Speakers:

James Conant (University of Chicago)

Carsten Fogh Nielsen (Aarhus University)

Anil Gomes (Oxford)

Dietmar Heidemann (University of Luxembourg)

Guido Kreis (Aarhus University)

Lars Lodberg (Aarhus University)

Jacob Lautrup Kristensen (University of Oslo)

Jessica Leech (King's College, London)

Camilla Serck-Hansen (University of Oslo)

Andrew Stephenson (Oxford/Aarhus University)

The events of the Aarhus Kant Week are organised by the Kant Research Project at the Department of Philosophy and the History of Ideas.

Contact: Guido Kreis (guido.kreis@cas.au.dk).

The Kant Research Project and the events of the Kant Week are generously funded by Aarhus Universitets Forskningsfond (AUFF)