

Natural Resources Bringing Japan and Africa Closer

Photo: Pixabay.com

Date: Thursday, October 11, 2018

Time: 09:15-16:45

Venue: Bartholins Allé 3, Merete Barker Auditorium, 1253-211

Program

9:15-9:20 Welcome by Annette Skovsted Hansen

9:20-9:30 Deputy Director, Mr. Takao Yoshihara, JSPS, Stockholm Office: "JSPS and Our Activities"

9:30-11 Kazue Demachi, lecturer, Tokyo University of Foreign Studies: "New African Debts and Natural-Resource Dependence"

11-11:15 Coffee, tea, and fruit

11:15 – 12:45 Sayaka Funada Classen, researcher, Institute of International Peace Research, Meiji Gakuin University, Tokyo: "A Critical Historical Review of Japan's Involvement in the Global Agro-Food System through Imperialism, Aid, Diplomacy, and Investments: 1890s to the Present"

13-14 Lunchbreak

14-14:30 Georg Fischer and Raymond Yamamoto, Assistant Professors at Aarhus University: "Triangular Cooperation Brazil-Japan-Mozambique: The Transplantation of the Brazilian Cerrado Experience to Africa and its Socio-Environmental Implications"

14:30-15 Henrik Hinge, former MA student at Aarhus University: "Power politics and the Chad-Cameroon Pipeline Project: A Case Study of Oil, Wealth, Security, and National Interest in Chad"

15-15:15 Coffee, tea, fruit, and cake

15:15-15:45 Vladimir Pacheco, Associate Professor, Aarhus University: "Developing a CSR strategy in the Natural Resource Sector in Ghana"

15:45-16:15 Annette Skovsted Hansen, Associate Professor, Aarhus University: "Slaves, Fish, and Oil in the Japanese and Danish involvement in the Transformation of Two Ports of Ghana"

16:15-16:45 Roundtable discussion including discussions of the role of JSPS fellowships

Registration: <https://www.jspss-sto.com/event/the-activity-seminar-organized-by-jspss-alumni-club-in-denmark/>
In case of questions please contact Annette Skovsted Hansen, organizer, at ostash@cas.au.dk

SCHOOL OF
CULTURE AND SOCIETY
AARHUS UNIVERSITY

Generously supported by

日本学術振興会
Japan Society for the Promotion of Science