

Short CV

Carl Marklund is a postdoctoral researcher at the Centre of Baltic and East European Studies at Södertörn University (Stockholm). In his doctoral thesis obtained 2008 at the European University Institute (Florence) he studied the concept of social engineering in Sweden and the USA during the interwar era. Carl Marklund's research interests focus on the relationship between different forms of social planning and social visions. In particular, he is interested in the impact of scientific knowledge production for the development of various policy fields. He has researched and published on the global image of the Nordic welfare states, Baltic-Nordic regionalism and the recent return of geopolitics in the Baltic Sea Region.